Purpose and Activities

The fund's purpose is to support local, national, and regional human rights groups and networks abroad in becoming stronger, more effective, and better funded.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Grants Program

The fund's grantmaking interest is currently focused on groups based and working on human rights situations. Organizations requesting funding must be working to defend, protect, or promote human rights; work could include mobilizing popular opinion through human rights skill-building and organizing; exposing abuse through documentation; addressing violations through direct action, policy or legal reform, legal aid, and litigation; networking and coalition building to further the effectiveness of human rights work; and capacity-building. Grants support campaigns that otherwise might falter for lack of needed resources, bring financial stability to groups, and help organizations take their work to the next level in terms of visibility and impact. Grants range between $5,000 and $30,000. Women-led human rights organizations are strongly encouraged to apply.

Background

Incorporated in 1946 in IL.

The foundation is a private foundation that was incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois in 1946. It was founded and endowed by Clifton R. Musser (1869 to 1956), and his wife, Margaret Kulp Musser (1875 to 1967). The grantmaker is a signatory to Philanthropy's Promise, an initiative of the National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy (NCRP). By signing on, the grantmaker has committed to allocating the majority of its grantmaking dollars to marginalized communities and at least 25 percent to social justice strategies, such as advocacy, community organizing, and civic engagement.

Limitations

Giving limited to the U.S., Mexico, Central America, and the Caribbean.

Purpose and Activities

The foundation believes it can make its best contribution at this point in time by addressing some of the world's basic long-term problems in three areas: Human Rights and Economic Justice, Reproductive Justice and the Colorado Program.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Colorado Program

The goal of the foundation's grantmaking program in Colorado is to: a) build the capacity of key progressive base-building organizations in the state, and b) facilitate collaboration between these and other groups to create a powerful, permanent infrastructure capable of effecting state-wide policy change over the long term. For additional information, contact Renee Fazzari, Prog. Off. via e-mail at renee@generalservice.org or by telephone at (970) 920-6834, ext. 6. Applications are accepted online only for this program. Paper proposals will not be accepted.

Human Rights and Economic Justice

The program supports efforts that protect, promote and create good jobs with living wages for workers, including low-wage workers, in the United States and Mexico so that workers on both sides of the border can live and work in dignity. U.S. contact: Mary L. Estrin, e-mail: marylestrin@gmail.com; Mexico contact: Holly Bartling, e-mail: holly@generalservice.org. Complete program criteria available on foundation web site.

Reproductive Justice

The goal of the program is to preserve, advance and defend public policies and laws that ensure access to a comprehensive range of reproductive health services to women and adolescents in the United States and Mexico. The foundation focuses primarily on the following issues in the United States: surgical and medical abortion, family planning and contraception, and comprehensive sexuality education. Focus areas in Mexico include: advocacy for reproductive rights at the national level, and building decentralized capacity within the reproductive and sexual rights movement at the state level. The foundation is particularly interested in programs that promote systematic change through the use of policies and laws on a regional or national level. The foundation places a priority on those organizations and projects that demonstrate a commitment to diversity, are dedicated to developing new leadership in the field of Reproductive Health and Rights, address the needs of low-income women, women of color and young women, and work collaboratively with colleagues inside the pro-choice movement and non-traditional allies in other progressive movements. The program does not fund: direct service delivery, projects without promise of impact beyond a local or state level, research and publications not directly linked to policy outcomes, or projects outside the U.S. and Mexico. For additional information, contact Holly Bartling, e-mail: holly@generalservice.org.

Background

Established in 1976 in CA.

The foundation is a signatory to Philanthropy's Promise, and consequently, will be committing a significant percentage of their grantmaking dollars to meeting the needs of underserved communities, including the financial support of advocacy and civic engagement.

Limitations

Giving primarily on a national basis, with some international giving.

No support for universities or organizations with budgets exceeding $2 million.

No grants to individuals (except for honoraria), or for capital campaigns, endowments, or media projects.

Purpose and Activities

The foundation gives primarily in the areas of the environment and natural resources, international affairs, economic public policy and enterprise development, social justice, and community affairs.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Antonio Pizzigati Prize for Software in the Public Interest

This annual $10,000 award will honor a software developer whose work has made an outstanding contribution to the nonprofit community and ongoing efforts for social change. In addition to completing an application, each candidate must also be nominated by a peer within the public interest computing world or a leader in the nonprofit community who can speak to the personal qualities that contribute to that individual's leadership, as well as to the product the nominee developed.

California Wildlands Grassroots Fund

The fund supports grassroots activists and organizations that are protecting and restoring California's wild places. It targets small community-based organizations (annual budgets of less than $100,000) with grants to support an array of wildland and open space protection efforts, from scientific and legal research to grassroots organizing and advocacy, from participating in county general plan review to travel and printing expenses. Typical grant amounts range between $1,000 and $3,500, with a maximum of $5,000.

Death Penalty Mobilization Fund

This funding collaborative supports strategic collaborations of local, regional, or national nonprofits working to abolish the death penalty at the state and/or federal levels. Two-year grants, ranging from $40,000 to $80,000, will be given to state-based activist organizations working on death penalty reform, abolition, or moratoria efforts in the U.S. Grants can be used for expansion or enhancement of organizational and/or staff capacity, campaign development or implementation, infrastructure development necessary to implement or expand campaigns, public education, and direct and grassroots lobbying. Priority will be given to states where grants will make a significant contribution towards securing a concrete victory or strategic outcome.

Disability Rights Fund

This program of the foundation, a collaboration between donors and the disability community, works to advance the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD). To further this aim, grants will be made available to help strengthen the participation of disabled persons' organizations (DPOs) at country level in the global South and Eastern Europe/the former Soviet Union. Two types of grants will be awarded. Single organizations or partnership can apply for grants, ranging from $5,000 to $20,000, to build voice and visibility through more inclusive organizations or partnerships that increase DPO skill in addressing the CRPD; increase DPO participation in decision-making processes regarding the CRPD at state or local levels; and/or directly address implementation of CRPD articles. National DPO coalitions can apply for grants, ranging from $30,000 to $50,000, to work on ratification of the CRPD, passage of specific legislation to accord with the CRPD, or the production of a shadow report. Grants will provide one-year, project-specific support; cross-disability and other partnerships in-country are strongly encouraged, as are projects which address particularly marginalized sectors of the disability community. Visit <http://www.disabilityrightsfund.org> for more information and particular geographic foci.

Fund for Drug Policy Reform

This fund supports effort to change and shape drug policies through advocacy, community mobilization, and education. The fund seeks to broaden public and political support for drug policy reform and will fund strategic and innovative approaches to increase such support. All grantmaking will be directed to organizations working within the U.S., with particular emphasis on state-based activity.

HIV Young Leaders Fund

This fund supports youth-led (defined as being 30 years of age or younger) organizations and projects that work to address the needs of young people most-affected by HIV in their communities, including young people living with HIV. Funding will be given to organizations that support local, national, regional, or international HIV advocacy; local peer-based HIV services; and community mobilization.

Honor the Earth Native Communities Program

This program, a program of the foundation's Honor the Earth initiative, awards grants, ranging from $1,000 to $5,000, to protect land, water, ecosystems, and ways of life through forward-thinking initiatives grounded in indigenous wisdom. Grants will be given solely to organizations that are led and managed by Native peoples, and that are based in the U.S. and Canada; priority will be given to grassroots, community-based organizations and groups with a lack of access to federal and/or tribal funding resources. A portion of funding will be reserved to organizations that work to implement renewable energy and energy efficiency/weatherization improvements to advance Native community dignity, and create food security utilizing Indigenous varieties and organic production. See <http://www.honorearth.org/grantmaking> for more information.

Hurricane Voices Fund

This fund, established by MoveOn.org, supports efforts to amplify the voices of recent hurricane survivors as they speak out about the important issues of social and economic justice related to Hurricane Katrina.

Indigenous People's Fund

Grants, ranging from $15,000 to $40,000, are available to indigenous organizations with a focus on preserving and enhancing the rights, health, safety, and education of women and girls in native communities. Applications will be accepted from nonprofit organizations around the world; U.S.-based organizations must be able to present their IRS determination, while non-U.S.-based organizations must provide government-issued documentation certifying that the organization is a non-governmental organization.

Jane Bagley Lehman Awards for Excellence in Public Advocacy

These awards recognize individuals who have exhibited a deep commitment to the public interest, and whose work demonstrates innovative approaches to social change. Ideal nominees should share their experiences and findings with as wide an audience as possible, and work to bridge the gap between those at the grassroots level and those who make policy. Recipients will be honored with a $10,000 grant. Self nominations are not accepted.

Mario Savio Young Activist Award

This award is presented to a young person (or persons) with a deep commitment to human rights and social justice, and a proven ability to transform this commitment into effective action. Applicants must: be between the ages of 16 and 26; be engaged in activism for social change, promoting the values of peace, human rights, economic/social justice, or freedom of express; act within the context of an organization, social movement, or larger community effort; and be considered an inspirational leader or motivating force by others in that context. Preference will be given to candidates who have not yet been widely recognized, and who do not have personal privilege or a strong institutional base of support. The award carries a cash prize of $6,000, to be split between the prize winner and his/her organization.

Moloka`i Environmental Protection Fund

Grants, ranging from $1,000 to $5,000, are awarded to organizations that protect Moloka'i's environment (particularly its ocean, land, and water resources) through restoration, pollution prevention, and reduction projects; and enhance the Moloka'i community's ability to achieve such protection through environmental advocacy, education, and access to legal services.

Money Well Spent

This initiative funds programs that help to ensure resources for family planning and reproductive health in sub-Saharan Africa are well-spent, and is targeted to provide support for work that will develop solutions that could have a considerable and measurable impact on the efficiency and effectiveness of family planning and reproductive health funding flows. Letters of interest may focus on work at the local, institutional, systemic, national, multi-country, international, or other levels.

Relief and Reconstruction Fund

The fund works to quickly and efficiently channel emergency relief in the aftermath of natural and civil disasters. The fund pools donors' resources to increase the impact of their giving, and researches and distributes funds to effective grassroots and advocacy organizations working for long-term economic, social, and structural change.

State Equality Fund

Awarded in conjunction with the Gil Foundation, the Evelyn and Walter Haas Jr. Fund, and the Arcus Foundation, this fund supports programs that work to further equal opportunity for people at the state and local levels (regardless of sexual orientation or gender identity and expression), and that focus on plans to achieve elements of equality in the form of policy change. Specifically, the fund supports one- to five-year statewide policy-change outcomes in the areas of nondiscrimination, relationship recognition, parenting rights, and safe schools; to a lesser extent, the fund will also consider one- to three-year local or incremental policy-change outcomes that help pave the way for later, broader statewide gains. Priority will be given to: state-based or local organizations with ongoing LGBT equality efforts; proposals that demonstrate meaningful collaboration with relevant organizations, including non-LGBT allies, and all other LGBT advocacy efforts in the state or locale; state efforts that have the greatest impact on the most number of people, especially those efforts that have regional or national significance or occur in states with few LGBT protections; efforts that effectively engage and include people of color and address racial disparities; efforts and projects that will leave the grantees with greater capacity to achieve further LGBT equality gains in the future; and efforts that show strong community buy-in, financial support, and long-term sustainability. Funding will generally range between $50,000 and $100,000.

Tides Shelter Fund

The fund supports organizations working across the U.S. to address the problem of homelessness.
